Good morning Mr. Shaw,

Although standing on the pier, you may get the opportunity to board on the pull back. As you know yesterday the high was 5.68 and today's high was (so far) was 5.62 with normal volume. The pattern started today was different from the last two days, It did not drop at the opening then climb, it climbed then drop. So the pull back started and I watched my profits erode, I sold It for a 18% gain instead of 25%. Pay attention to the ten day moving average. The price may drop to it and spring from there. If so, pile in! If it does not spring up from the ten day, It may drop to the twenty day moving avg, when (or if) it spring from the twenty day pile in. So now it become important to watch it dally for the next several weeks for the buy point.

Good morning Mr. Shaw,

You are right they are taking a bad hitting. However, knowing that It's a traders market (not long term Investing) I was able to buy a dip and a pop to the tune $5300 today. Dip and pop means to buy when it dlps and sell when it pops up. That works when the market is trying to find direction-which way it will go, up or down.

Good morning Steve,

I got my pay statement this morning. The remaining annual leave, after the 40 hrs I just took, is 103.33. whereas the balance cannot fall below 80 hrs so I can share 23.33 hrs. Sick falls below the minimum so I'm unable to share any. I have forwarded this to my manager for approval. Hopefully you will have it soon. Thanks, GB.

Gerald,

I appreciate your inquiry into the availability of stock for purchase. It seems you grasped pretty quickly from our meeting that we are a good bunch. We are proud of what we are doing here and the direction we are headed. Should you decide to make an investment in us we will be delighted to have you along for the ride!

I am including in this e-mail a copy of our 4th Quarter 2008 newsletter. I will be sending you some additional information via mail. If you should have any questions regarding the bank or the information being sent to you, please feel free to give me or Jim Haley, our President /CEO, a call. I believe you got Jim's card at our meeting.

Also, please make any specific stock inquiries directly to Jim. He will be able to give you the shares available and at what price.

One final note, although we are primarily a business bank, we do accept personal accounts as well. Our CD rates are particularly attractive and we would love it if you would consider us if you are in the market for such services.

Gerald,

Sorry about the redundancy, but after I sent the first e-mail, Jim suggested I send the following letter along as well.

This letter is related to a capital campaign that the bank is currently conducting to provide additional capital to fuel future growth. The bank is "well-capitalized" and satisfies all regulatory measures. However, we are generating additional capital in order to capitalize on the opportunities that are being presented to us in the marketplace.

Participation in this capital campaign, per legal requirement, is limited to what are defined as "qualified investors", or essentially independently wealthy investors. If you feel you may be a qualified investor, please inquire with Jim and he can get you taken care of. Of course there are shares available on the open market as well so don't worry about the capital campaign limitations for stock purchase.

In any event, the letter gives a bit more of our story than comes across simply in the numbers.

Like I said, please let Jim or me know if you have any questions.

Thanks

Hello every one,

I pulled up Standards & Poor's (S & P) on five of the companies and have attached a sample for Mathews International Corp which has a market cap of $1.1Bil. All of the companies provide the Information we need to compare but they only go back to 1999 and come forward. Take a look at the Info and tell me how you think we should proceed. GB.
